

Bowline

A Bowline is used for making a loop in the end of a rope. It is commonly used as it is easy to tie and will not slip.

To form the knot, you should make a loop in the rope with the working end on top of the standing end then passing the working end through the loop, behind the standing part and then back through the loop.

